Transnational Project Meeting Turnhout, Belgium

Where we're at right now?!

Article by DRPDNM

Let's give a quick overview of our project objectives. Firstly, we aim to strengthen teachers' skills in interculturality, global citizenship, and diversity management in classrooms. Additionally, we're empowering students and parents to take action on social inclusion topics.

To keep tracking our activities and set new short-term goals, project partners met on 31st January and 1st February in Turnhout, Belgium. With equal cooperation and participation of all participants, we concluded the meeting successfully.

Next steps

Teacher's handbook and platform development

Exciting news! We've completed successful research on how project topics are integrated into classrooms across our partner countries and Europe. With this valuable insight, we're gearing up to launch the development of a teachers' handbook. We anticipate completing this handbook within the next two months.

Furthermore, we're in the process of creating a digital platform. This platform will serve as a handy tool for teachers to access and utilize the materials we've developed in their classrooms. Stay tuned for more updates on our progress!
